Product Preview Pilot Report

We piloted the first iteration of our MVP on January 12, 2023, at 1300GMT. The main objectives of the pilot were:

1. To user test UX and – importantly – our end-to-end, AI-based facilitated deliberation approach
2. To stress test our semantic clustering algorithm performance in a challenging deliberation scenario (complex deliberation subject, many comments)

A number of people who had expressed interest in Voxiberate were invited to join a community in Voxiberate and participate in a voxiberation. The community was very diverse in terms of ethnicity, race, gender and professions; and joined from US, Europe and Africa.

The subject for deliberation was AI ethics and governance. More specifically, the community was asked to deliberate whether powerful AI systems (such as chatGPT) should be made available openly to the public, or they should be regulated and access to them restricted. Following the deliberation 71% of the community voted in favour of unrestricted access to advanced AI systems.

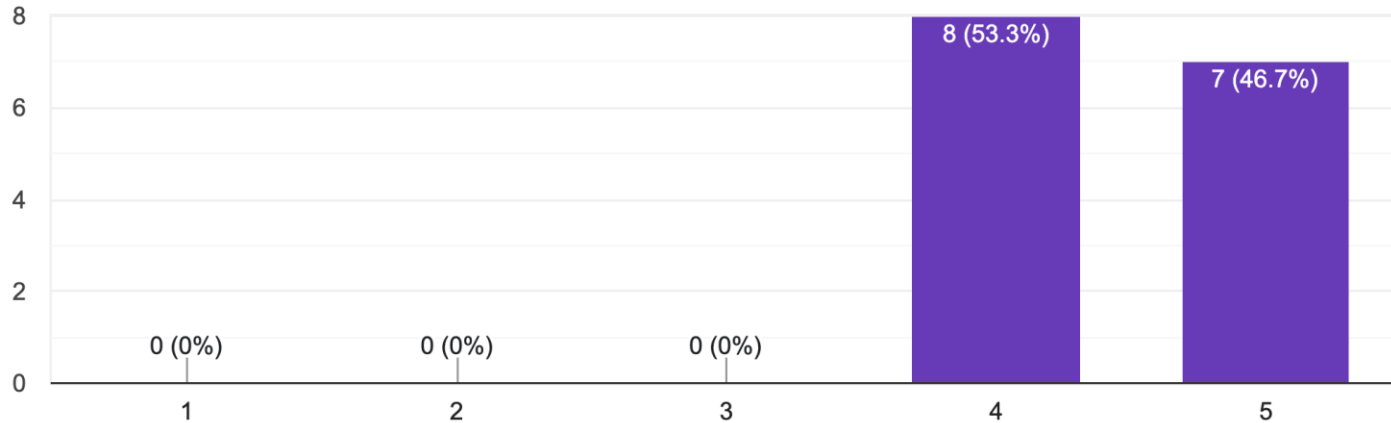

Following the pilot we received very positive, and often enthusiastic, feedback from the participants. Please see in the next pages the results of the exit survey that participants were asked to complete.
